Amtrak Station Signs (1971+)

This decal set is designed to easily letter a multitude of the station signs found on Amtrak stations throughout North America beginning in the early 1970s. The signs with "rail passenger station" were typically found on the ends of the depot, and on the side of the station facing the parking lot (a parking lot sign has also been included). The "blank" sign gets the name of the town applied (along with the two-letter state abbreviation), and one or two of them are placed on the station facing the track so as to be visible from onboard the train.  By carefully studying the letter jumble provided, you will notice that quite a few station names can be pieced together without much work. Here are a few hints... Several common suffixes are located in the following names: "burg" is in "Harrisburgh," "dale" is in "Carbondale," "ford" is in "Hartford," "ham" and "ing" are in "Framingham," "land" is in "Island," "mond" is in "Richmond," "mont" is in "Claremont," "ria" is in "Iberia," "son" is in "Jackson," "ton" is in "Burlington," "town" is in "Johnstown," "view" is in "Crestview," and "ville" is in "Fayetteville." Also, note that the state abbreviations are preceded by a comma. If you cut the decal film so as to include the comma before the state, you will not have to worry about the size of the space between the city and state. Here is a list of station names that ought to be possible with a minimum amount of work using these decals:
